What if . . . You could go back in time? Be there with Jonah in the belly of the whale? With Jesus at Gethsemane? With Adam and Eve in the Garden? What if you could help the dreamers of the world "give peace a chance" -- a REAL chance? This spiritual allegory expresses the deep yearnings for the redemption and renewal that tug at the heart of an ordinary woman in the depths of a Maine winter at Christmastime. When she and her beloved Soldier find themselves in a shared spiritual vision, they discover that they are in the midst of a cosmic struggle -- for the redemption of the entire world. Throughout their journey together, she embraces love and peace as the means to spiritual renewal. He learns hard lessons about setting aside his rationality and pride. Only by surrendering to love can he be saved and join her on their mystical tour to redeem the world. Music from the '60s and '70s, with all of its hidden depth, informs this spiritual adventure. And the Baby Boomer favorites who made that music, like the Man Who Imagined (John Lennon), the Man in Black (Johnny Cash), and others guide, challenge, and sometimes cajole along the way.

You can join them in this spiritual journey. Seeing it through the eyes and ears of two seemingly ordinary people in the dead of a Maine winter.
